Does the Home Manager record the incident or accident and reports it as necessary to the CI/ CQC/CIW, the local contracting authority, the Regional Director, and the Quality Director, for the company.: YES

Do all new staff learn about the duty of candour at their induction?: YES

When an incident or accident has happened, does the Home Manager and staff set up a learning review?: YES

Please provide a short explanation of the learning from any Duty of Candours (Please do not provide any information that could identify individual residents): we had one resident who was very prone to falls , she sustained a cut to her head falling in the lounge where she hit her head on a trolley, on a second occasion sustained bruising to her face falling in the lounge area , skin tear to her arm and cut to her head falling,. A skin tear to her arm falling from bed. We worked closely with her GP and family throughout and alarmed matt was insitu next to her bed and in her armchair to alert staff. It was decided with family, GP that the risk was less detrimental to her than not being able to walk around and that everyone knew it was very likely to happen.

Another lady was involved in an altercation with another resident and sustained a small wound to her head.

All incidents were recorded in care plans, reported to CQC and safeguarding where relevant.

Duty of candour informs our learning and planning for improvements as a service, and as a company. It has helped us to remember that people who use our services have the right to know when things could be better, as well as when they go well.

Do you confirm that you have made this report available to the regulator but in the spirit of openness, have also published it to share with residents and their relatives too.: YES
